

Results for "Monitoring and coaching, through sports, of youngsters at risk of radicalization" are now available

The selection results for the call for proposals (EAC/S19/2019) have been published.

7 projects were selected after responding to Call for proposals on "Monitoring and coaching, through sports, of youngsters at risk of radicalization".

The European Commission published this call for the first time. Its aim is to support sport-related projects organised by sport organisations and federations, in cooperation with public authorities, local and civil society actors that focus on helping younger generations at risk of exclusion and radicalisation to better integrate them in the communities in which they live.

In total, the European Commission received 31 applications.
